

Leadership mentoring

Ashok has worked with captains of industry but maintains that he learnt some of the most profound lessons in leadership from commercial sex workers. He has taught leadership as a Senior Fellow at Harvard. His own life and career tracks are a leadership journey, well off the beaten track.

Ashok provides leadership coaching and mentoring for senior executives and CEO's, in business and social sectors, on a selective basis. The process of working with a leader typically takes six months to a year. It entails meetings in person once a month, plus regular Skype and voice discussions. It is a tailored process geared to the individual.
